We've included these older product reviews to demonstrate that photoscape was released in 2009 for Windows, Lightroom was released in 2004, Microsoft Office was released in 2001, and Paint Shop Pro was released in 1999. The heatmap above reveals that Lightroom is another hardware-related product -- and a particularly strong one at that. That's not surprising, given the app's pro-level features. Overall, 25% of Lightroom users own a MAC, 20% a PC, 13% own both, and only 12% own an iOS device. Clearly, two years of the Creative Cloud has added a great deal of value to the pack. If we hadn't included Lightroom CC as part of our free trial, which we did this month, we would have had 53% of our users be our older users making less than $50k per year. The last update was Elements 12 . I selected for review an unpacked version review of the program on Adobe's website .
